NOTES

Professor David Gordon Lyon, of Harvard University, has been appointed Director of the American School in Palestine for the year 1906-07.

By the recent appointment of Mr. Bert Hodge Hill as Director of the American School at Athens, the Managing Committee of that School has filled the vacancy occasioned by the death of Dr. Heermance in September last. Mr. Hill was born in March, 1874, in Bristol, Vermont, where he was prepared for college. He graduated in arts at the University of Vermont in 1895, and for three years thereafter was principal of the high school in Newport, in his native state. In 1898 he entered Columbia University, where he devoted himself to the study of classics and classical archaeology, receiving the degree of A.M. in 1900. In the autumn of this year he went to Athens as Drisler Fellow of Columbia University, and remained in the School for three years, during the last two of which he was Fellow of the School. In 1903, at the invitation of Mr. Edward Robinson, he became Assistant Curator of Classical Antiquities in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, a position which he still holds. He has during a part of his residence in Boston (1904-06) been instructor in the history of Greek sculpture at Wellesley College, and lecturer at the Museum on Greek art, under the auspices of Simmons College. He enters upon his duties at Athens next autumn.

The American School at Athens purposes to publish in the near future an authoritative and adequate account of the celebrated temple known as the Erechtheum, an account that shall be of value alike to the historian, the archaeologist, the artist, and the architect. The arrangements for this work were made by the late Director, Dr. Heermance, who was to contribute a discussion of the inscriptions. His manuscript, which was left in a state almost ready for publication, will be completed by Mr. Lacey D. Caskey, at present Secretary of the School. The marble sculptures have been entrusted to Professor Harold N. Fowler. The architectural remains have been studied by Mr. Gorham Phillips Stevens, for two years Fellow in Architecture of the School — the second year on the Carnegie foundation — and at present of the office of McKim, Mead & White. Some of Mr. Stevens's drawings and reconstructions have been used, though necessarily greatly reduced in scale, in the illustration of his article in the present number of the JOURNAL. Mr. Stevens's demonstration in this article that the east wall of the Erechtheum was pierced by two windows cannot fail to command attention.
